CALVARY CONNECTIONS

Terry Franks

I was born in Aurora, Illinois. Some of my favorite childhood memories are of riding bikes with my cousin and exploring all over the countryside. Those were simple, good times that I still think about today.

One of the most influential people in my life was a police officer I met when I was 15 years old. I knew that if I ever got into trouble, I wouldn't just have to answer to my parents, but to him as well. He was an all-around good man, and we stayed in touch for many years, up until his passing in 2024. He made a lasting impact on the person I became.

Later in life, we moved to Arkansas to create a better life. Most of our children were already adults by then, but we had strong family ties in Arkansas and had always enjoyed visiting the area, so it felt like the right place for us.

My first job was as a cook at the Holiday Inn. Over the years, I've worked in security, public works, and I currently work part-time at Walmart in Asset Protection.

I met my wife, Sue, at work in Aurora. We dated for a year before getting married. Together, we've built a wonderful family—four children [three boys and one girl], sixteen grandchildren, and one great-grandson. All but one of our children still live up north. I'm incredibly proud of my family. This Saturday, May 2nd, we celebrate our 45th wedding anniversary. My key to a successful marriage? Always agree with your wife.

My faith comes from my parents. We were raised in church and grew up Pentecostal. Even being sick wasn't an excuse to miss church—Mom would say, "You're going, and we'll pray for you when we get there." Through life's tough times, we've always turned to prayer. We found Calvary years ago during a singing they hosted with The Heirline Family, and we've been there ever since.
